His two grand sermons in his sixth volume-- Christ the Son of God made Man and The Incarnate Son a Sufferer and a Sacrifice, may be pointed out as two splendid illustrations of Newman s incomparable power of making the highest doctrines imaginatively to abide with us, and to abide full of the most homiletical and most home-coming expositions and applications. As to Newman s two novels, --it goes without saying that both Loss and Gain and Callista contain brilliant and memorable passages. Callista, especially, contains not a few pages that are entirely classical. The description of the scene where the work is laid; the oftquoted locust-passages; and the conversation on Tartarus held between Caecilius and Callista, --a passage that William Law himself...
