This is particularly true when REC products are supplied from renewable sources located in the same region in which they are marketed. Products and Pricing The green power products offered in competitive markets tend to differ from those offered by utilities in regulated markets, in that they may contain a mix of electricity generated from new and preexisting renewable energy projects; whereas utility green pricing programs generally utilize only new renewable energy supplies. One reason for this is that competitive suppliers are more concerned about price competition, and existing resources are typically available at lower costs. Also, when markets initially opened to competition, green power marketers often were forced to offer existing renewables because of a lack of new renewable energy supplies. However, as new renewable energy facilities have come online, the fraction of new renewables in retail products has increased. In addition, certification programs have required increasing amounts of new renewables. Going forward, the Green-e certification program has...
